

BIO

A Montana native, Matt is an active believer and dedicated reader of success and self-help books. He knows that EVERYONE'S brains are capable of FINDING SOMETHING AWESOME to live an awesome life. He says, "Learning how our brains work in this world is imperative to creating a happy and successful life!" Matt was inspired to create the FIND SOMETHING AWESOME! book series to introduce and communicate the power of our brains in a universal way that could be understood and applied at an early age.

He lives in Los Angeles with his wife and three children.
